Know the Law

Cyber Bullying/ Threats

Online bullying, called cyber bullying happens when teens use the Internet, cell phones, or other devices to send or post text or images intended to hurt or embarrass another person.

Cyber bullying can range from rude comments to lies, impersonations, posting unauthorized pictures, and threats.

Police are contacted if cyber bullying involves:

- Threats of violence
- Extortion
- Obscene or harassing phone calls or text messages
- Harassment, stalking, or hate crimes
- Child pornography
- Sexual exploitation
- Taking a photo or image of someone in a place where they would expect privacy.

Computer Crimes

Sending a letter or any inscribed communication to anyone threatening death or bodily injury to that person or any member of their family is a second-degree felony.

Note: This includes any written threat in the form of a handwritten note, text message, e-mail, instant message, Facebook, Twitter or Edmodo message, and other forms of electronic text transfer. A later claim that “I didn’t really mean it” will have little effect on the outcome in court.

Information is from the “Know the Law” booklet by Saint Johns County.
